Mission Arlington says it needs volunteers to deliver Thanksgiving meals this Thursday. About 6,000 meals are going out across the community.

Mission Arlington Director Tillie Burgin says the year before the pandemic, about 6 thousand volunteers came out to help distribute meals. They're hoping for the same turn out this year.

Volunteers don't need to sign up, they just need to show up at 8 a.m. Thanksgiving morning outside the Mission Offices.

Burgin says deliveries should wrap up by noon so everyone gets the chance to go home and celebrate the holiday with their families.
